rounded by all the pomp and trappings of the finest military post perhaps in the world. This was the opening day of the State camp of instruction for the beginning of its fourteenth scason, and the troops assigned by tien, McAlpin to do the first tour of duty are Souadron A and the Eighth Regiment of New York and the First Provisional Battalion, consisting of four separate companies from up the State. Squad-ron A was the first of these to ar-rive at the camp, and its moving was an event in that part of New York which lies between the Armory at Madison avenue and Ninety-fourth street and the pards of the New Ninety-fourth street and the yards of the New elly be a success, for among the well-known York Central and Hudson River liallroad at amateur golfers on its membership list are L. Sixty-sixth street and the North River, where the squadron took trains for the camp.

The squadron in these days has grown to a double-troop organization, with seventy-five men in one troop and seventy-four in the other, and when the assembly sounded in the armory at 7:30 o'clock this morning the only absentees were Chaplain D. Parker Morgan and three of the rank and flie.

Major Charles E. Roe was in command of the whole squadron, and Capts, O. B. Bridgeman and Howard G. Badgley of the respective Troops 1 and 2. Officers and men all told courted up 163, and there were 160 horses in the outfit. At 8:20 o'clock the bugle sounded "March," and the troop rattled out of the armory and were greeted by cheers from the crowd which had assembled to see them oft. They made a fine show, although they were in the plainest of service garb. Every man was in undress uniform, with boots, spars, and broad brimmed campaign hat, and gauntlet gloves. but the yellow trimmings of the uniforms and the bright yellow neckerchief which each man wore, gave them a gay look.

Strapped to each trooper's saddle was his rolled overcoat at the pommel, and behind him his rubber pouch and a nosebag for his horse, formed in line for the band sound off they reached clear around three sides of the parade ground, and looking from the mess hall builf toward the white house the troopers who formed the far line made a fine dark background for the marching band and the many beplumed officers whose functions kept them within the hollow square. At the marching off after the parade the three organizations followed each other around the square of the parade ground in company fronts, and it was interesting particularly to note the differences between the separate companies and differences between the separate companies and differences between the separate companies and the first of the parade ground in company fronts.

Through the kindness of neighboring landowners, the use of grounds has been obtained close to the club house and cricket field. The course laid out is about 2,500 yards in length, the distances between hoise varying from 155 to 430 yards, with good natural hazzards. Six holes will be ready immediately, and the remaining three as soon as the bay can be cut.
By the end of July all the greens will be in good condition.

The great neighboring indicessibility to the city, as within forty-five minutes after leaving South Ferry a man can reach the club house, change, and be at the first tee, an opportunity which is offered by no other club in New York. "Even the most enthusiatic golling member," said one of the promoters, "will now be able to have his

This is the first time that the Highth has been in camp slice it regained its old piace as a regiment. Its ranks are filled with a good-looking lot of young men, and though they could not equal the up-country men in evidences of military training on the first night, there is no reason why at the end of the week they should not be dangerous rivals for them.

The Eighth brought into camp 600 men, They, too, had a hearty send-off when they started from New York. They gathered at their armory at Park avenue and Ninety-fourth street at 11 o'clock. They took the elevated railroad to the Grand Central Station and boarded a special train there at 1 o'clock. The First Provisional Fattalion has 284 men in it. It is composed of the Second Separate Company of Auburn, under Capt, Miliam M. Kerby, who by virtue of his rank commanda, under Capt, H. M. Fales; the Forty-fourth of Utica, under Capt. KEY Wist, Fia., June 27.-On Wednesday morning last about 6 o'clock the revenue cutter Winona, under orders from Deputy Collector Knight, left this port to follow the City of Richmond, which had left about two hours before under suspicions circumstances. About 2 o'clock that afternoon the Richmond was signified off Alligator Light. She turned and came toward the cutter, and then suddenly turned and went in the opposite direction under a full head of steam. The Richmond evidently mistook the Winona for some other ves-ol. The cutter gave chase, which was continued until night, when, owing to the dangerous in-

Close Work for a Class Cup.

From the New Horen Evening Register. That the class cup for '93 S. was not awarded

That the class cup for 1918 is, was not awarded was due to the most unique compileated which ever arose in the decision of a cap at tale. Two claimants were in the field, Edward Mitchell of this city and Wallace Winter of St. Paul. Minn. Both submitted their claim, and it was found that the rival infants were born on the same day.

This made an interesting complication, and at its meeting here on Tuesday the class voted to take evidence to the matter. The class secretary will take the testim my of the physicians present as to the estate hour of the boys birth, and the cus born first will at the next theeting of the class be declared the winner. It is understood that the hours were very close together. A member of the class said to-day, in discussing the matter:

"The class will gu according to law, and declare born the infant which made the first sound. This is the legal definition of a birth. It should be all the more fitting in this case, as the roungeter was trying to yell for Yale, and the infant that could do that first deserves the cult."

INDIAN NAMES IN THE SOUTH. How the Choctawn Left Souvenirs of Their Language in Geographical Names,

From the New Orleans Picayane. John A. Watkins, one of the city's most renerable dwellers, having now passed his eighty-seventh year, is very familiar with the customs, psages, beliefs, and traditions of the Thoutaws of Mirsl slppi, much of his time when a youth having been spent among them. In speaking on the subject of the names of many localities, rivers, &c., in Mississippl and Louisiana, Mr. Watkins remarked that they show their Choctaw-right. "But," he observed, "the original names have become so corrupted and changed that only one familiar with the Chortaws and their language could interpret them." In this connection it should be remarked that Mr. Watkins's familiarity with the Indians began in the year 1813, and Indians to the Indian Territory, about 1836-38, that it was continued until the removal of the until night, when owing to the dangerous in-cality, the cutter came to anchor. Early the next morning also got under way and went to Mississippi, we have an example among many of this corruption of Choctaw nomenclature. The word Conhoma is derived from Co-homma, meaning 'red tiger.' Is-aquena is 'deer river,' or creek, corrupted from last, meaning 'deer' and ok-hi-na, meaning 'creek,' or river Itawamba county, in Mis-sissippt, meaning 'go and kill,' was originally Ito-taka-londol. This is a very remarkable example of change. "There is in the same State a creek called

There is in the same State a creek called Noxubee. The change from the original in this word has also been very striking. The indicate form of the word was "Oka-massino", and its meaning was "stinking creek." Tradition state, in repeat to the crimin of this aspellation, that hope and all obtinate and bloody buttle was fought on the banks of this creek between the mestars and the Creeks, who had been traditional exemines from time immendmal. So many were stain on both sides that the bodies of the dead, thrown into the creek, gave to its waters the appellation that commemorated both the incident of the battle and its maledorous conclusion.

It may be the thought at his point that the foul between the two tribes or until on never really cannot until as stated above, the Inited States to vernment transferred both of them to the Indian Territory. "A sort of so-mired burying of the hatchet, it is true," observed Mr. Watkins, "was brought his off the efforts of the transfering a string time before this removal, through the effort of the convenience authorities but was at best when some one on the latter vessel galace when some one on the latter vessels and the small boat put back for the Three Friends.

Lieut. Hay caused the Richmond to be storped and went on board the Three Friends. Alter examining her papers he informed capt. Brown ard that he was under arrest and that he must go to key West.

The cutter coming up later. Lieut. Myrick was sent on board the Three Friends, and the three vessels started for Key West.

The Richmond arriving about $150 m'clock, the Three Friends and cutter an hour and a half later. On board the Three Friends was Dr. Castillo, Secretary of the Coban Junta.

LAKES ONCE PLOWED. Discoveries Which Indiente that This Was the Old Outlet to the Sen-Tremendons Changes that Opened Another Way,

From the Syracuse Journal.

THE WATERS FROM THE GREAT

Can any one call to mind a more striking proof of the changes and disturbances that have taken place in the earth's surface than the recent discovery of an oak tree, two or three feet in diameter, at Three Rivers, fifty feet below the surface, brought to light by sinking a well with a drill at the confluence of the Oneida and Seneca rivers. Such is the fact, however, and an important discovery it is, showing that the Onelds River was at one time the outlet of an immense volume of water, and a deep water way for the discharge of great accumulations of the watery element. This well was sunk seventy-five feet from the margin of the river, and the drill struck the oak tree at an astonishing depth below the now water bed of the famed Oneida. Geologists speculate, theorize, judge from analogy, talk intelligently of the rock formations, but Prof. Hall. I think, has said nothing of the many remarkable developments of Vorthern Onondaga and Oswego county disclosures The well was sunk for a supply of water for the summer resort at Three Rivers by Mr. F. H. Barnum. In sinking the well a white sand or filt was struck until the oak tree was encountered. The gentlemen who had charge of the sinking of the well made slow progress in drilling through the solid oak tree. It was as sound as the day it was overwhelmed by the elements thousands of years ago. It took well nigh twelve hours to drill through the For Graduation Presents we have an immense stock of Diamonds, Watches, Jewelry, etc., at very attractive prices.
